

VIRGINIA, January 27, 2010 — NTL Institute for Applied Behavioral Science has been awarded a contract on the GSA Federal Supply Schedule effective January 20, 2010.

NTL Institute for Applied Behavioral Science has been awarded a contract on the GSA Federal Supply Schedule effective, January 20, 2010.

NTL Institute's GSA Federal Supply Schedule contract number is GS-10F-0096W. The contract enables the organization to offer the following MOBIS (Mission Oriented Business Integrated Services) services under its GSA schedule status: Consulting services (SIN 874-1); Facilitation services (SIN 874-2); Training services (SIN 874-4)

The General Services Administration (GSA) acts as a buyer for the entire government on a world-wide basis.

NTL Institute, headquartered in Arlington Virginia, was founded in 1947. The organization is a not-for-profit educational company of members and staff whose purpose is to advance the field of Applied Behavioral Science and to develop change agents for effective leadership for organizations of all variety.

The NTL Institute learning experience is a contemporary curriculum of programs that reflects the most current business thinking to guide leaders of organizations toward discovering imaginative approaches to difficult business problems and complex issues in the workplace.

To its assets NTL can boast that much of the theory and practice that presently underlies the professional field of organization development was created and has been taught around the world by NTL members.

Also to its credit is an extensive collection of premier books and publications used as the training tools for organization development around the globe.

For further information about NTL Institute please visit www.NTL.org.